INTERNSHIP REPORT

FIRST MEETING WITH THE COMPANY.

The company where I do my internship are actually 2 company's. You have Rocksteady and Broadwing. Rocksteady is a digital agency and Broadwing is more of a recruitment company. But we are all sitting in the same room in an business center.

I had to get used a bit to everything in the beginning. Because it was the first time I lived somewhere without my parents. In a different country that looks and feels totally different then Belgium.

It is however an international environment. There are 2 other interns from Portugal. Then there is someone from Brazil, but she leaves after my first week. There is also someone from Bulgaria, England. And finally, there are some Maltese people to.

The office is on the highest floor in the building. So It has a rooftop terrace. On that terrace we have some drinks on Friday after work. And in the future, there will probably be some other activities they told me, like a boat party or paintballing.

The vibe within the company is quite relaxed. You can basically wear what you want. You can come to work in a short with just a t-shirt.

I can come to work between 8 and 10 o'clock. Obviously the sooner I come into work the sooner I can leave.

My tasks during this internship are:

- Updating some contact on their existing websites.
- Make a new WordPress site within a custom theme for RS Group. (It's the group in which Rocksteady is)

- Updating a site from scratch with headless WordPress as a database and React as the frontend. This is like an experiment because they always wanted to try this but didn't get to it. But in my first meeting I told them that I had some experience with this.

My mentor is always around at the company. My desk is about 5 meters from his desk, so I will be seeing and talking to him every day.
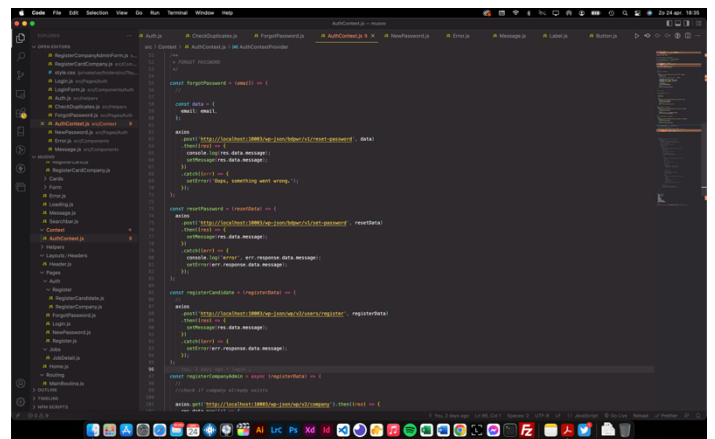

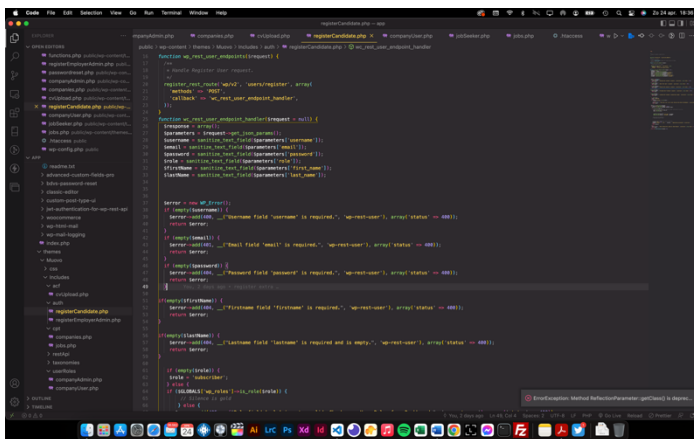

I started reworking an existing site from scratch. (https://muovo.eu)
For this project I'm using react and wordpress. React is for the front end part of the website. And Wordpress handles the back end, the database.

This was something that Ben always wanted to try but never got to it. And in the first meeting we had back at home, I said that I had some experience with that.

For this project I don't only have to develop the website. But I also have to think about the database structure, make flowchart for some of the step like for when you're applying for a job.

The website is a job board site where you can find jobs in Malta and apply to them.

For this I had to write some extra functions in php to make the register part like we wanted it to be.

For this site I created a register page where you can register as a jobseeker, company admin and a company user (some people from HR). I also made the login page
Al the pages are build with components, so that you can easily have the same look and feel on the whole site.

And for the rest I did some configuring in the wordpress, registered some custom post types; some custom user roles, …
